

Designing Slippers with Chinese Cultural Elements

I designed these slippers with two lovely pandas because they are the national treasure of China and generate significant economic benefits for local communities through ecotourism and other activities. Pandas play an important role and perfectly represent China.

Additionally, the slippers feature lanterns, which symbolize vitality, social status, and good luck. Over the years, the Chinese have used lanterns for light and as decorative elements. Today, Chinese lanterns are prominent in various festivals, such as the Mid-Autumn Festival and Chinese New Year. Thus, lanterns hold great significance in Chinese culture.

